Garfield and the South.

The country knows that it has lost in the death of Garfield—the man, cordial, genial and pains taking, an honest, efficient and hard worker, an intellectuality full of practical wisdom and richly endowed with experience and learning that fitted it to great affairs—a truly representative American. It can only speculate upon what it has lost in the statesman and patriot. He was shot down, not for any offense or fault of his, but because be was the President of the United States and because as President he had remembered his whole country and recognized all his people. For this rouson there have been no party limitations in the public grief. To each of us he was our President-to each of us he is our hero, and over the tragic spot of memory whereunder he shall lie entombed the magnolias of the South no less than the maples of the North shall mingle their shades forever!— [Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mr. Chas. B. Wayman, Erie, Pa., writes:
"My physicians had given me up to die.
They told me my lungs and liver were all decayed and I was very weak, pale and emaciated. By chance I saw Brown's Iron Bitters advertised. I immediately realized that without Iron in the blood, life could not exist. With trembling anxiety I sent a servant who procured for me a bottle. I must have taken it with great faith, for almost immediately I felt its benefical effect. Soon mediately I felt its benefical effect. Soon all dyspeptic symptoms disappeared, my lungs grew strong, pains in the region of the heart vanished, my urine became free of sediment, and in a word, I have regained perfect health. Now I feel able to thrash the doctor that attended me, and I really believe I conchit to do it." believe I ought to do it."

The San Antonio Express will not weep if Mr. James is permitted to walk out of the president's cabinet. The Express complains because the postmaster general has invaded its realm and crippled the star route serqice, reminding us of the wail the small boy is sure to send up when deprived of the apple that he has extracted from the dealer's siand. It may be a little wrong to indulge in such wholesale destruction of an apparent good, but the whole thing is so corrupt that nothing seems reason able but to wipe it entirely out. -Belton Journal.

FEARFUL DANGER—Do not sacrific your health or your life because some unprincipled dealer asks you to try an imitation or substitute for the genuiue Simmons Liver Regulator—his only object being to make an extra twenty-five cents a bottle regardless of its effects on your system and general health Be sure that you obtain the genuine Regulator, which is always encased in a White Wrapper, having thereon a large red Z and the signature of J. H. Zeilin & Co. Accept no substitue, however plausibly reccommended. Health and life are too precious to endanger, and since the genuine Regula-tor is good and its reputation assured, why tamper with cheap nostrums? nv3-1m

The Indianapolis Journal, in a com plimentary article to Chester A. Ar thur, used these words: "By the act of God he (Arthur) is now called to the higher one of President of the United States." If the Almighty directed the killing of President Garfield at the hands of an assassin, would it be right to punish Giteau for simply carrying out the edict of oi the great I Am? The editor of the Journal is off when he connects God with the work of a mere assasain. We have more respect for the Al mighty than to attribute such work to his hands.—Hancock Democrat.

It speedily allays Bronchias Freitation, and promotes a healthy discharge from the Lungs, which gradually becomes more natural until the pattent is cured.

For Roarseness, Whooping-cough, Spasm of the Windpipe—familiarly known as the "Crowing Disease"—and, indeed, for all the pulmonary allments most common among the little people, is a certain cure. One of the special merits of the unequalled pulmonic, is the facility with which is acts. It produces a quieting effect on the severest cough within half an hour after the dose has been given, and the paroxysms abate with every subsequent doso until the process of ours is complete. Sometimes this result is accomplished in twenty-four hours, and even a chronic cough of long standing soldom resists the sanitary operation of the remedy any length of time.

UNIVERSAL COUGH SYRUP

HAVE YOU A COUGH?

Attend to it in Time! Do not Neglect it!

For it may become serious and end in Cownensp. tion. It will cause you much suffering, and great loss of time, and probably loss of health during life, for there is no disease to which the hum family is subject, so treacherous is its commence-ment, so formidable in its progress, or so deplor-able in its result, as that untiring agent of death— CONSUMPTION.
